The Thirty Years War. Europe in 1618 was riven between Protestants and Catholics, Bourbon and Hapsburg--as well as empires, kingdoms, and countless principalities. After angry Protestants tossed three representatives of the Holy Roman Empire out the window of the royal castle in Prague, world war spread from Bohemia with relentless abandon, drawing powers from Spain to Sweden into a nightmarish world of famine, disease, and seemingly unstoppable destruction.

The historian George Trevelyan (1875-1962) encouraged Wedgwood to pursue this work rather than continue her "dry as dust" economic study with Tawney. Some accounts claim that this was the point when she gave up her PhD, but the file indicates that she signed up for further work in the academic year 1935-1936.
